

Strategic Review

Organisations need a profound knowledge of current performance and future requirement in order to set their direction and strategies. The assembly of relevant and accurate information and appropriate analysis is essential to create effective long term property and facilities solutions.

Coretex International strategic reviews engage with key stakeholders in organisations to define the need, both now and in the future for property and facilities services. Comparing this with the current provision, we identify any gaps that will need to be bridged in the short and long term. Working with our clients, we undertake a detailed option appraisal taking into account value for money, risk and quality helping our clients identify the most appropriate strategies
